

FRENCH GAIN IN THE REGION OF AUTRECHES

Advance On 2-Mile Front to Depth of
More Than Mile

(By The Associated Press)
PARIS, Aug. 17.—The French made further progress today north and south of the Arve having taken 1,000 prisoners and numerous machine guns since yesterday according to the war office statement tonight. They captured the village of Cannay-sur-Matz, and in addition took enemy positions on a front of nearly two miles to a depth of more than a mile in the region of Autrech, in the Soissons sector.

The text of the communication says:

"Our progress continued north and south of the Arve where we have taken one thousand prisoners and numerous machine guns since yesterday. Further south we captured Cannay-sur-Matz, and north of the Aisne we captured enemy positions on a front of five kilometers, and to a depth of 1,500 meters in the region of Autrech. In this latter action we took 240 prisoners."

"Twelve enemy airplanes were brought down yesterday."

1,450,000 Yanks Now in France, Italy and Siberia

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—Of more than 3,000,000 men now under arms the American army has sent nearly one half or more than 1,450,000 overseas in service against the enemy in France, Italy and Siberia.

These figures were revealed today by General March, chief of staff in his Saturday talk with newspapermen and members of the senate military committee. The senators were told that some transports are making the trip to Europe and back in nineteen days and that the average has been reduced to 28 days, which with additional shipping becoming available makes the great job of getting 80 divisions of American troops to France by June 30, 1919, certain of success.

The chief of staff paid only brief attention to the progress of the fighting in France where the situation is developing slowly. He did characterize the battle, however, as "the German retreat" and otherwise indicated that further retirement was expected. Explaining his announcement as to embarkation, General March said:

"When I give figures hereafter of troops embarked from the United States, the totals will embrace the troops in Siberia, Italy, France and Russia proper. These figures will mean the entire American expeditionary force in all parts of the world. We have now embarked on all the ex-

Discussing the work of Americans abroad he said:

"The American troops in France are beginning to receive official French commendations of various sorts and here is one that came this morning from the French commander of the division to which the second artillery brigade was attached. It is the form of an official order, and the translation is something like this:

"On the eve of the relief of the second artillery brigade of the second United States infantry division from the 12th (French) infantry division, the general commanding this infantry division takes the opportunity to express to the brigade commander, General Bowley, to all his officers, non-commissioned officers and soldiers, his thanks for the services rendered their French comrades and his admiration for the splendid American bravery."

"After having vigorously fought with the second United States infantry division and with the 58th (French) infantry division, the second American artillery brigade showed during two days of severe fighting at the side of the 12th infantry division, the finest qualities of energy, endurance and devotion."

I. W. W. CASE GIVEN TO JURY YESTERDAY

CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—The I. W. W. case which has lasted more than three months was given to the jury today. Attorney Frank K. Nebeker, for the government concluded his argument in one hour and Attorney George F. Vanderveer, defense, surprised spectators by making none at all.

WAR SUMMARY

News of Activities On Various Battle Fronts in Summarized Form By Associated Press.

The Americans in Lorraine have enlisted an ordinary quite sector by taking from the Germans the village of Frappelle, five miles east of St. Die. The action, which started with the proportions of a raid in the early hours Saturday morning, developed into an organized attack under the dash of the Americans troops immediately after they left their trenches. The German losses evidently were heavy in killed and wounded and prisoners also were taken by the Americans.

Marshal Poch has at last definitely connected up the battles of the Aisne and the Somme. Announcement is made that by a local attack, the plateau north of Autrech, about ten miles northwest of Soissons has been carried by the French and that their success gives them a position dominating the region extending northward toward the Oise.

The attack, while it was local in character must have had plenty of power behind it to carry the French lines as far ahead as is indicated in despatches telling of the incident. The French line from the Aisne to the Oise has been inactive since early in July and, at last reports ran thru Autrech to the Moulin-Sous-Touvent and thence northwesterly thru the Carlepoint and Ourcamp forests to the Oise. If the whole plateau north of Autrech has been taken from the Germans, the French have advanced upwards of a mile in that region.

When the Germans halted their retreat from the Marne salient and made a stand on the Aisne, it was assumed that a blow northwest of Soissons would be struck sooner or later, as a success there would outflank the Germans and compel their retreat to their old lines north of the Chemin-des-Dames, which runs along the ridge north of the Aisne.

Then the Picardy offensive began and the eyes of the world were fixed on the allied progress east of the Arve and Aene.

This drive has recently been almost at a standstill. Only local actions have been fought for the past four days along the line established by the Germans and west of the Somme. Some of the progress especially along the southern sector of the line has been important but hardly noticeable on a map, but the Germans are desperately defending every inch of the high ground south of the Arve and south of Lassigny, as well as the area around Roye. The allied pressure is continuous and heavy however, and may eventually break down the enemy resistance.

There are no indications that Marshal Foch will continue his pressure northwest of Soissons, but his first success there may be exploited. It would not be surprising to see the fighting spread between the Aisne and the Oise for an allied victory in that region would break the hinges of both the Aisne and Somme lines and compel a German retirement on both sides of the new battle area.

From Soissons to Rheims the allies, among them a considerable American force have been doing little since the Americans regained their positions at Fismette, across the Vesle from Fismes, after being driven back over the river by a furious assault of the Germans.

In the Flanders sector there have been no engagements of a significant character.

"The fighting in Russia has begun to assume proportions which will attract considerable attention if present operations continue. The front is not continuous but it may be said to be in the form of a crescent extending from Batum on the Caspian Sea northward along the western foothills of the Caucasus and east of the Volga river and then swinging more to the northwest until it reaches Onega Bay, an arm of the Arctic Ocean."

Announcement is made from Tokyo that the movement of Japanese troops to the Manchurian front has been ordered. It is probable that these troops will have been landed at Port Arthur or have been landed northward toward the Trans-Baikal country, where the Bolsheviks are in control.

SCOTT FIELD

Face Penalty of 27
Years in Prison and $10,000 Fine Each

(By The Associated Press)
CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—One hundred leaders of the Industrial Workers of the world were found "guilty as charged in the indictment" by the jury after one hour's deliberation at their trial for conspiracy to disrupt the nation's war program late today. Arguments for a new trial will be heard next week. The case has been before court 133 days.

The defendants, including William D. ("Big Bill") Haywood, general secretary-treasurer of the I. W. W., the highest position in the organization face a maximum penalty of twenty years in prison and a $10,000 fine each.

Federal Judge K. M. Landis, in his charge to the jury withdrew the fifth and last count of the indictment which charge conspiracy to violate the postal laws and particularly that section excluding from the mails enterprises in the nature of schemes to defraud.

The remaining four counts of the indictment specifically charge violation of the espionage act, the section of the criminal code prohibiting interference with the selective service act, and the conspiracy statute. After the instructions of Judge Landis, the jury retired, at 4:10 p. m., and just one hour later announced that its verdict was ready. The court was hastily assembled and the verdict was read at 5:25 p. m. There was no demonstration and the defendants were returned to their cells after Judge Landis had announced that he would hear arguments for a new trial next week.

Attorney Vanderveer had little to say beyond announcing that he would attempt to obtain a new trial. Previously, however, he had characterized Judge Landis' instructions to the jury as "clear, concise and fair. Twenty three or the original 127 arrested were dismissed. They were as follows:

Julio Blanco, Arthur C. Christ, McGregor Cole, Ernest D. Condit, Roger S. Culver, Stanley Deabieki, H. A. Giltner, Arturo Giovannitti, Harrison Haight, F. PRESIDENT WILSON
ENJOYING OUTING

Spends Two Hours With Secretary Then Takes Motor Trip.

Manchester, Mass., Aug. 17.—President Wilson took friends today that he was enjoying the most restful outing in years. Getting away from the intense heat at Washington he found the weather along the north shore almost like early autumn with ideal conditions for golfing.

House for luncheon. It was made known today that President Wilson since his arrival here had given consideration personally to the plea of the men of the Gloucester fishing fleet, whose peaceful industry has been menaced by German submarines. Assurance that protection would be given the fleet so far as possible was received later from Washington.

Plan 3 Liberty Loan Drives For Five Billion Each

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—Tentative plans of the treasury plan for three big liberty loan campaigns within the next year each to raise $5,000,000,000 or more it was learned tonight. The first will be from September 28 to October 19, as has been announced, the following is planned for January or February and the third in May or June. This program will be necessary, it is explained, to provide the $16,000,000,000 which officials estimate will be required to finance war operations during the year in addition to the $8,000,000,000 which may be provided by the new revenue bill now being drafted.

If government expenses and loans to allies fall much below the $24,000,000,000 estimate the government is expected to try to combine two loans into one big campaign for the largest credit ever sought by any nation. Such a campaign would be set for some time in the late winter. Money needs between loan periods will be financed by sale of short term certificates of indebtedness, as in the past. In addition the treasury looks for a steady inflow of money from tax certificates which banks and corporations probably will buy in billion dollar quantities as a means of virtually paying their taxes in advance. Every effort will be made by the treasury to make the number of loans as few, and the time of financial rest between the campaigns as long as possible. Officials would much rather have only one more big solicitation in addition to the fourth campaign to start late next month than two before the end of the fiscal year June 30, next.

Iowa Storm Kills
Three; Does Great
Property Damage

DUBUQUE, Iowa, Aug. 17.—A storm which broke here shortly after midnight on Saturday continued about two and one half hours resulted in the death of three men and caused thousands of dollars worth of damage to growing crops, farm buildings, roads and streets.

The deaths occurred when Illinois Central freight train No. 72 about a mile east of Julien, near here. Three men, Engineer William F. Reisher, Fireman C. Bock and brakeman H. J. Yarnell, all of Waterloo, were killed instantly when the heavy engine turned over and sank into a sea of mud along the right of way.

The scene of the accident is near Rockdale, where in July, 1876, forty three persons lost their lives when the flood waters of the same creek swept down the valley and carried away practically every home in the village.

There are no houses in the valley now, all being placed on higher land nearby.

Thousands of acres of corn in the valley suffered severely. Scores of farmers reported cattle and horses missing and in one instance a farmer lost three buildings of which no trace has been found.

Country roads in all directions are torn up and the bridges by the score were carried away.

Several large railroad bridges between here and nearby points were also carried away and only one railroad announced westbound service tonight. Illinois Central officials declared that it probably would be late Monday before traffic would be resumed on their lines between here and the scene of the wreck. Great stretches of road bed have been washed completely away and must be replaced.

ESPIONAGE LAW TEST DECIDED BY COURT

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 17.—Disloyal statements, alleged to have been made by Theodore Pape an attorney of Quincy, Ill., were not in violation of the espionage law because they were in reply to questions of a liberty loan committee as to why Pape did not buy bonds, according to the Red Cross, according to a decision of Federal Judge Louis Fitzhenry here today.

Judge Fitzhenry sustained a demurrer to the indictment charging Pape with violation of the espionage law, and dismissed the defendant.

The court said the liberty loan committee had no right to coerce Pape.

Pape is alleged to have declared among other things, that he would not buy bonds because it would help to prolong the war, and that if others would do likewise the nation would be compelled to make peace.

War, famine, disease and starvation claimed the largest number of victims, while a considerable portion of the deaths were those of prisoners of war, including officers and soldiers, were deliberately put to death. These facts have been brought to Paris by Colonel R. Rosetti, of the Rumanian army, who has made a study of the subject.

YANKEES CAPTURE SMALL VILLAGE IN LORRAINE SECTOR

Take Frappelle and Eradicate Considerable Hun Salient

(By The Associated Press)
WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN LORRAINE, Aug. 17.—(By The Associated Press.)—The Americans early this morning captured the village of Frappelle and eradicated a considerable German salient in the allied lines. Prisoners were taken by the Americans and the Germans evidently suffered heavy casualties in killed and wounded.

This sector has been regarded as a quiet one and today's action began merely as a raid into the enemy's positions. The raid was preceded by a straight bombardment for a few minutes followed by a box barrage that punned the Germans off from escape. When the Americans went over the top to attack at 4:30 o'clock they succeeded in sweeping all enemy resistance before them and the raid became an organized attack. The Germans replied heavily to the American artillery fire and they also shelled the entire neighborhood throughout the day.

The enemy fire which included a barrage was ineffective. The Americans have captured the former German trenches and consolidated against counter attacks.

Attack Field Hospital.

With the American Army on the Vesle Front, Aug. 17.—(By The Associated Press.)—German bombing machines have made two separate attacks on an American field hospital south of the Vesle but were driven off by anti-aircraft guns. There were no casualties.

The Germans dropped five bombs on Thursday night and six on Friday night, two of the latter failing to explode. The hospital tents cover several acres. The nearest bomb struck within twenty yards of one large tent.

Continue Artillery Fire.

With the American Army on the Vesle Front, Aug. 17.—(By The Associated Press.)—Along the Vesle the French and Americans have continued their harassing artillery fire day and night, the Germans replying at intervals. There was no infantry action on either side and the lines remain unchanged.

The Germans apparently are confining their efforts to the air, their bombing machines Friday night reaching points along the Marne south and southwest of Fismes, endeavoring to bomb the bridges and railway centers and places wherever they thought troops might be quartered. Anti-aircraft guns quickly drove off the enemy before they could do much damage. At some places the Germans dropped bombs on either side of the Marne where the French and Americans are completing the reconstruction of the bridges destroyed by the Germans in their retreat.

ROME, Aug. 17.—The official communication from the war office today says:

"There was lively activity by both artilleries on the Asiago plateau, northwest of the region of Monte Grappa and on the middle Piave. VIENNA, Aug. 17.—via London —British recognition of the Czech-Slovaks as a nation was denounced in an official statement issued here today. The statement declared that the members of the Czech-Slovak army will be regarded and treated as traitors by Austria-Hungary.

The statement, which was forwarded by the way of Amsterdam, says:

"The form and contents of his latest declaration of the British government must be emphatically repudiated. The Czech-Slovaks' national council is a committee of private persons who have no mandate from the Czech-Slovak people and are subject to the Czech-Slovak nation, which exists only in the imagination of the entente."

"Equally absurd is it to represent this committee as a future government which as yet does not exist."

"In reference to the Czech-Slovak army it may constitute a part of the entente army but it certainly cannot be an ally of the entente in the sense of international law. It is well known to us that only a slight fraction of the so-called Czech-Slovak army are Austrian or even Hungarian citizens of Slovak tongue."

"These disloyal elements, guilty of perjury, will notwithstanding the entente's recognition be regarded and treated as traitors. It cannot be permitted that the peoples who fulfilled their duties as Austrian and Hungarian citizens and whose sons as members of the Austro-Hungarian army fought bravely against the entente have been subjected to the suspicions cast upon them by such methods as employed by the British official declaration. The Austro-Hungarian government reserves its steps in this regard."

BERLIN, Aug. 17.—via London —The allies yesterday made strong attacks against the Germans on both sides of Roye according to the war office statement issued today. "Between the Yser and the Aene in some sectors fighting activity increased during the night. Renewed enemy thrusts near Vieux Berquin and north of the Aene were repulsed."

"On both sides of Roye the enemy again made strong attacks. In the afternoon they extended to the north as far as a point southwest of Chaumes and south as far as a point northwest of Lassigny, by assaults which were repeated until the late hours of the evening attempted at these widely separated points to break thru our position. The army of General von Hutier completely repulsed these attacks and the French who bore the main burden of the fighting again suffered losses."

It looks like it might be necessary for the Kaiser to send reinforcements to Russia to hold his ill-gotten gains.

"Every German must fight for his fatherland," says the Kaiser. But his sons are too sacred to be exposed on the firing line.

A rumor has been in circulation that East State street will be paved this year. We await confirmation—it is too good to be true.

We have sent to France over a million and a half men and have loaned to their government two billion dollars. America is helping with an open hand, there is no limit to her endeavor to bring the war to a speedy termination.

The reason for the decrease in the demand for chewing tobacco "over there" is picturesquely given by a soldier: "With tobacco bitin' inside yer cheek, th' ol' gas mask anchored between yer teeth, mustard gas all about ye an' no chance fer open yer mouth to spit—war sure is hell."

THE KAISER'S GRATIFICATION.

A letter written by Kaiser Wilhelm to a certain Frau Meter is receiving publicity. It reads: "His majesty, the Kaiser, hears you have sacrificed nine sons in defense of the fatherland in the present war. His majesty is immensely gratified at the fact, and in recognition is pleased to send you his photograph with frame and an autograph signature."

The letter reminds American readers of the message sent by President Lincoln to Mrs. Bixby of Massachusetts, who had lost five sons in the Civil War—because it is so different.

"I feel," said Lincoln, "how weak and fruitless must be any words of mine which should attempt to beguile you from the grief of a loss so overwhelming. But I cannot refrain from tendering to you the consolation that may be found in the thanks of a Republic they died to save. I pray that our heavenly Father may assuage the anguish of your bereavement, and leave you only the cherished memory of the loved and lost, and the solemn pride that must be yours to have laid so costly a sacrifice upon the altar of freedom."

Celebrations of the birthday of Meriwether Lewis have occurred in Virginia. Many will have to read up the history of our own country to recall his name in connection with the Lewis-Clark explorations of years ago.

TO POOL ALL SOLDIERS' DEBTS.

National Association of Retail Credit Men is to take up for consideration and action a plan for pooling the accounts of drafted men and soldiers enlisting in various services, which were left unpaid when they left civilian life. The plan has been devised and will be submitted to the convention by the St. Louis Credit Bureau, which will urge its adoption throughout the country. The chief object is to reduce the financial burdens on all soldiers on their return from the front. The plan is to unify the indebtedness of each individual and turn over this joint account to a local credit bureau for collection. The bureau will make its own terms with each man, and will accept payment in monthly installments. As the money is received it will be prorated among his creditors. It is not planned to make such bureau collection agencies, but rather agencies to relieve him from possible harassment by numerous creditors. The scheme has been carefully worked out after a consideration of existing conditions throughout the country. At the outbreak of the war hundreds of men in every city, the best creator customers of retailers, went into the army or navy. Other men have been drafted in increasing numbers. In the majority of the cases the accounts remain in the same condition as when the men left. For the debtor to meet them on army pay is impossible.

CANADA QUADRUPLES.

If some one had told Canada in 1912 that by 1918 her sales to the United States would be multiplied by four, the Canucks would have passed him the W. J. Bryan treatment. That is exactly what has happened. In 1912 we imported goods to the value of $108,800,000 from our northern neighbor; during the fiscal year ended June last, $434,250,000. But, on the other hand, while our exports to Canada have increased, they have not done so proportionately to the increase of imports from that country. In 1918 we sold Canada $778,500,000 worth of goods, war munitions mainly, compared with sales aggregating $329,257,000 in 1912. Sales to Canada this last fiscal year were some $8,000,000 less than the year before, and they will be even less in the year to come, for Canada has greatly increased her restrictions against U. S. goods, while we still hearken to her to come into our markets, and the President points the way to our tariff door. Canada hews to the line of protection. Our Southern cotton profiteers are anchored to free trade. The policies which Canada adopts with respect to industry are such as to encourage a removal of these many American concerns, and they are going the emigration grows more pronounced each year. The result of the November congressional elections will do much to determine whether business can look forward to a period of helpful preparation for the commercial race of post-war days.

CONSCIENTIOUS OBJECTORS TO WORK.

Vexed Problem of Their Presence at Army Cantonnements Solved. After struggling for a long time with the knotty problem of conscientious objectors in army cantonnements, the War Department now announces that the difficulty has to a large degree been solved thru the aid of the farm help specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture.

In the various States where there are farming communities which include sects opposed to war, such as the Dunkards and Mennonites and where additional farm help is needed, these places are made known to the cantonment commanders, together with a record of their farm labor needs.

The plan has worked out so well that in the three camps where definite lists of objectors were compiled, practically all of these men have been placed Camp Meade had 88, all of them now at labor on farms; 100 of the 102 men at Camp Lee have been placed and the majority of these at Camp Taylor.

WORK OR FIGHT.

A recent statement by Senator Chamberlain, with reference to the "fight or work" order is worthy of consideration.

"It seems that in view of the fact that we are about to authorize the drafting of the boys between the ages of 18 and 21 as well as those above 31 and up to and inclusive of 45 years of age and are providing for the exemption of men between 18 and 45 who are engaged in useful and necessary occupations, the action service in the ranks, that when any are exempted solely because their services are more valuable to the nation in the production of things essential to the prosecution of the war, that when they cease in good faith to follow the essential occupations, they ought to be subject to the draft as in other cases."

"The young man not engaged in these occupations must wear the uniform, enter the ranks and bare their breasts to the weapons of German armies. He cannot refuse to work even for an hour and he is compelled to fight whether he feels disposed to do so or not."

"In view of this, when a young man is exempted from the draft solely in order that he may engage in essential industry, he ought to continue in that employment in good faith while any grievance he may have is being adjusted by the industries board and if he fails to do so he ought to be placed in the same category and be subject to draft just as the young man is compelled to do who was not exempted to work in such industries and who has been compelled to go to the battle front to fight for his country."

"The provision does not pretend to interfere with the right of any man to cease labor whenever it pleases him to do so, but simply says to him that if he does cease he shall under such regulations as the president may subscribe, subject himself to the draft as tho he had not been exempted in the first instance."

"The justice of this provision, the committee believes will appeal to the good sense and patriotism of the whole country."

THE SHIPPING PROBLEM.

Every six minutes a merchant vessel arrives and another departs from American ports. From North Atlantic seaports, there is a departure every eleven minutes, and one for Europe every forty minutes. This rate of operation does not include vessels in the service of the Army or Navy.

The merchant fleet of 1,500 ships under the control of the Shipping Board are run on a time schedule. The duty of measuring ship's performances with their tasks is lodged with the Planning and Statistics Division of the Shipping Board, headed by E. H. Gal, formerly dean of the Harvard Graduate School of Business.

Obviously, the division must know the tasks in details, and so it co-ordinates with the War Industries and War Trade Boards in determining and providing for the country's needs from abroad. It works on month to month schedules or as far in advance as it is feasible or possible to forecast.

In planning the use of the ships, the division works with the Food Administration in determining the shipping requirements for food; with the War department in correlating shipping with the requirements of the line of supplies of the Western front; with the War Industries Board in seeking solution of the problem of bringing necessary raw imports into the country; and with the War Trade Board in preparing the lists of essential imports and exports.

As the country has gone more and more on a war basis, it has been regarded necessary to limit the list of essential imports to less than a hundred. Data on the ships and their trade provides the basis for operation of the vessels under the Shipping Board's control. Likewise, records are kept of neutral vessels coming to this country or linking up with its foreign trade. Thus the division checks daily about 7,000 vessels, 1,500 of them being those of the Shipping Board, 3,000 engaged directly in American commerce and 2,500 scattered over the globe and trading for the most part with the Allies or their colonies. Roughly, one-fourth of the merchant ships of the world are watched by the Shipping Board.

Ship performances against tasks are recorded by "progress charts," which show at a glance what the vessels have to do and how they are doing it. Each set of charts is divided into ten divisions—one each for movements of vessels, turn-arounds, ships' charts of commodities, individual trades, summary of trades, ship charts of exports, performances in ports, and dock performances. Copies are distributed every ten days to governments which require constant information about the movement of supplies.

By these movement charts, all information regarding locations and movements of vessels is accessible, and from past records one may forecast the time of future voyages.

The summary on shipping and trade, prepared every ten days for the War Industries and War Trade Boards and the Food Administration, help shape the larger policies underlying the use of American ships in war time. The charts tell whether the ships allocated to a certain trade are enough, to many or to few, whether they bring in to little, or too much; whether they are on time; ahead of time or behind time; and whether the trade movement is too slow, too fast or just right. The charts also serve as guides to the Ship Control committee in the assignment of vessels to various trades. By comparing import requirements against deliveries, the charts show when vessels may be transferred from one trade to another or released to the Army.

RIPPLING RHYMS

By Walt Mason

FOOLED AGAIN.

Said the Kaiser to his men, "Go and wage in gore again, at this pinch, for the French, we've bled them white, and Americans won't fight—it's a cinch. You have heard these Yankee chaps are just suffering for scraps with the Teut? I am Wilhelm, always right, and I say they will not fight, worth a hoot. There is but a handful here, and 'twill cost that handful dear, bet your boots; here to serve with me and Gott, and my Teuts. They are strong grubbing gents; they can't fight worth eighteen cents, take my word; do not fear that bunch of jays, with their awkward backwoods ways—it's absurd. I will stand upon this hill, I your Kaiser, Unser Bill, on its brow; and I'll watch your mighty ranks going thru the yielding Yanks, like a plow. Here I take my mighty stand with my sceptre in my hand—go ahead! I will keep you in my view while the crimson fields you strew, with your dead." Then the Kaiser from his hill saw his mighty legions drill to the fray; and he saw the Yankees come, to the stirring beat of drum, making hay. And he saw his soldiers chased, punished, rattled and disgraced, shot and spiked; oh, they struck their hardest trots, hitting but the higher spots, as they hiked. "I can tell the Kaiser's woe as he watched the scene below, red and wet? But the Yankees, full of vim, didn't make a hit with him, we may bet."

WOMEN WORKERS IN ENGLISH SHIPYARDS

Outclass Men in Certain Work—Lack of Muscular Endurance Bars Them From Some Branches of the Work.

London, Aug. — (Correspondence of The Associated Press)—Women have outclassed men in certain work in British Ship Yards and more of them are being added to the ship building forces as rapidly as possible.

At Lord Furness' ship yards on the Tees seven hundred women are working as with spades and shovels, on extensions. Some of the women have been assisting in the building of a temporary railway at the yards and others laying concrete platforms on which the keels of ships will be put down.

In preparing concrete for the keel platforms gangs of women work beside gangs of men, and in one instance the women beat the men by four cubic yards. Numerous other incidents have been cited whereby the women outperformed the men workers on the same kind of work.

There are branches of work from which women are barred, because they haven't the muscular endurance, but whenever possible Lord Furness has been replacing fit men of military age with women.

At first there were many sprained ankles, due to the habit of women going to work in flimsy boots, often with worn pegtop heels, which were no use among loose soil and stones. A standard low-heeled shipyard boot has now been introduced.

SUFFRAGISTS ASK MANY CONCESSIONS.

London, Aug. — To the question "what will women want next?" the National Union of Women's Suffrage Societies have given a reply in their manifesto of reconstruction. Among the concessions asked for are:

Women members of Parliament Women envoys at the International Reconstruction Congress after the war.

British nationality to be retained on marriage with aliens.

Women magistrates and jury.

A NOTABLE WOMAN.

A day or two ago there was a notable anniversary birthday celebration in Washington, D. C. The event was the 80th milestone reached by Mrs. John A. Logan, one of the most famous women in American history. When the great Civil War began her husband was a congressman from Southern Illinois, and who was then known as a Douglas democrat, but when it came to the parting of the ways party lines were cast aside and he became a staunch defender of the Union, the Constitution and the flag of his country. Casting aside the ease of civil life, and the honors he had gained in the halls of Congress, he went down to Egypt and recruited the 31st Illinois Infantry, was unanimously elected colonel and entered the service, and from Belmont to Appomattox he was a conspicuous and heroic figure in all the campaigns of the Armies of the Mississippi and Cumberland.

At the historic siege of Vicksburg his division bore the brunt of the hardest fighting around that Gibraltar of the South, and to him was given the honor of leading his troops into the captured city July 4, 1863. From the very inception of the titanic struggle his gallantry and ability was recognized by President Lincoln and military honors came to him unasked. From colonel to brigadier, then to the double stars of a major general, and finally to the rank of lieutenant general, he was the hero of the Atlanta campaign where he covered himself with a glory that will never fade while fame her record keeps.

In nearly all the battles of the western armies his shining blade was in evidence and to his mastery leadership was largely due the series of victories that made Grant and Sherman names that were not born to die, and added a fadeless glory to his own record that will grow brighter as the years recede and merge into eternity. Some of our great leaders were quitters when the crucial test came, but this gallant son of Illinois was still there when the banners of a lost cause were forever buried at Appomattox and the flag of an undivided Union floated in triumph from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from the Everglades of Florida to the far northern section of our glorious republic.

And whatever glory and renown came to the matchless Black Eagle of Illinois in those history making days was largely due to the assistance of the famous widow now residing in the city of Chicago, the daughter of the great republic, made still greater by the heroism of that prince of American volunteer generals, Major General John A. Logan, who passed away in the very zenith of his fame and usefulness, December 26, 1886. All the years since that time Mrs. Logan has wielded a wonderful influence for the betterment of humanity. With her magic pen and courageous convictions in all lines of endeavor, she easily stands to the front today as one of the ablest, best and purest types of American womanhood, and a connecting link between the present and far past when history was in the making, all of which resulted in giving us the greatest nation on earth and a flag without a stain.

If American womanhood is to ever have a "hall of fame" among the brightest names will appear that of Mrs. John A. Logan. The women of this day and generation should take inspiration from the study of her illustrious life as she is moving toward her eternal sunset. Her life has been one of success, tragedy and indomitable will to overcome adversity all along her four score years, and when she passes to the bourne from which no traveler has ever yet returned, this world will be better for the good works that follow her. I take great pride in the fact that this noble woman was a personal friend of mine in the years past, and I consider it a great honor to be able to say that for many years I have enjoyed her personal acquaintance, and as for back as 1902 received many letters from her in the meantime. Following is a copy of a recent letter which I received from Mrs. Logan, and which I prize very highly:

1236 Euclid St., N. W., Washington, D. C.
June 28, 1918.

Capt. J. M. Swales,
Jacksonville, Ill.
My Dear Captain:

How can I fittingly express my appreciation of your eloquent tribute to Gen. Logan and myself? I feel I am unworthy of all that you have said but you could not say too much for Gen. Logan and his services to his country, his friends and his family. You may be sure what you have written will find a place among my most valued treasures which will be cherished by my daughter long after I have passed away. I had hoped that you would retain your position as Custodian of the Trophies of our glorious state and the Logan Memorial Room in the Capitol in Springfield, but it seems it was not to be. You are more courageous than I am that you continue to write in the interest of your country and the heroes of the past, who have little recognition at the hands of those in authority in these days of Democratic majorities. Of course we all wish victory for the Allies and we must win the war at all hazards but cannot help feeling that the extravagance and partisanship of the "Powers that be" is unpardonable but there seems to be no way to change the policy of those in authority unless the people have awakened to real conditions and will change everything at the polls at the next election. Be assured that as long as I live I shall hold you and yours in grateful remembrance for your devotion to the memory of Gen. Logan and your kindness to me. May length of days and all the blessings of life be yours, evermore.

Cordially yours,
Mary S. Logan.
J. M. Swales.

FROM COUNTY AGENT'S OFFICE

Barberry Again.—The scientists are still after the common barberry. Mr. Barringer of the United States Department of Agriculture, was in Jacksonville Thursday and Friday, locating barberry bushes. There are quite a number of these bushes on the lawns of private residences and on campuses of educational institutions in the city. Although these bushes are not infected, yet in all probability, the government officials will recommend their removal next season. The men who are directing this movement have in mind a bill, which they hope to become a law, that will provide for the complete destruction of all barberry bushes in the state of Illinois. Towns of Waverly and Franklin were also visited by this inspector, but no bushes were found.

Limestone Pays.—A. C. Moffett, of the First National Bank of Waverly, showed the county agent where he had applied limestone to a field near the Macoupin county line. Mr. Moffett had wheat in two adjoining fields one of which had been treated with limestone and the other had not. The treated field of wheat yielded 40 bushels to the acre, the untreated one yielded 31 bushels. Further, there is a stand of clover on the treated field, while the untreated field need to be plowed up.

Sheep.—There is a growing interest in both pure-bred and feeder's sheep in Morgan county. Very recently several farmers have bought sheep to graze on clover fields and to turn in the standing corn. Spring lambs, in the standing corn, gather a great many weeds that would otherwise prove harmful and make use of the lower blades of the corn that would otherwise go to waste. If dog owners would only tie up their dogs from sunset to sunrise, the sheep industry would thrive. At present the sheep owner must be constantly on guard against dogs. When a stray dog trespasses on a sheep owner's farm and is killed the farmer is acting only within his rights. Dog owners are advised to tie up their dogs between sunset and sunrise.

Demand for Farm Labor.—Farm labor, of the useful kind, is scarce. We need men who can handle teams. Boys who can milk cows and handle teams can be placed at steady work with good wages.

Alfalfa.—There is a growing interest in alfalfa. Charles Drake, of Chapin, James Joy of the Joy Prairie region, Harry Kitcher of the Mound Road, Lester Reed, southeast of Jacksonville, David Stansfield southeast of Murrayville and A. M. Basters northeast of Murrayville, have very fine alfalfa fields. In general these men seem to have followed the plan of clean cultivation until late summer, then liming the soil and sowing well irrigated seed. In some cases, they have added rock phosphate liberally. Where this has been done and only three cuttings per year have been removed, we do not hear any complaint about winter-killing.

Soy Beans in Corn.—F. E. Drury, of the Orleans neighborhood, and William O. Richardson, of the Mound Road, each have large fields of corn in which soy beans are planted. In both cases, the beans are doing remarkably well. Each of these men expect to turn either hogs or lambs into these fields at the proper time. Corn and soy beans compare very favorably with corn and tankage as a feed for hogs.

Wheat Smut Demonstration.—E. C. Jacobs of the United States Department of Agriculture, will give a demonstration showing the proper way to treat wheat for smut, on August 23rd. One of these demonstrations will be given at Waverly, Ill., and the other in the vicinity of Rohrer Station. It is planned to arrange for other demonstrations, on that day, for localities where wheat smut has been prevalent.

MISS NEBOLD TAKES RESPONSIBLE POSITION.
Mrs. A. C. Nebold of 243 Prospect street has received word that her daughter Grace has resigned her position as head of the Science department of the high school at Douglas, Arizona. She has accepted a position as chemist at the Coffee Queen Smelter at the same place. It is a responsible position and carries with it a handsome salary and offers good opportunity for advancement. Her many friends here will be glad to learn of her success.

RETURNS FROM VACATION
Rev. J. G. Kuppler, pastor of Salem Evangelical Lutheran church, has returned from a vacation tour of a few weeks and very enjoyable. The reverend gentleman traveled over quite a portion of New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio, visiting Buffalo, Cleveland, Erie and other prominent cities. He found plenty of hot weather though generally not as dry as here. In McLean county he encountered a heavy rain in returning. He is much refreshed and improved by his outing.

REMARKABLE CAREER OF STAR AMERICAN AIRMEN

Lieut. David E. Putnam Tells of the Big Things He Has Done in Quiet Manner—Greatest Fight Was With Ten Germans, Five of Whom He Shot Down.

With The American Army In France, August. (Correspondence of The Associated Press.) The story of Lieutenant David E. Putnam, of Newton, Mass., he tells it, gives the impression that there is nothing extraordinary in the making of a star of the air fleet. Of the big things he has done he tells in so quiet a way that they appear ordinary. His greatest fight took place on June 5th, when he engaged ten Germans and shot down five of them.

A year ago he was feeling his way on a Penguin, the machine that is given to all beginners because it cannot fly off the ground. Now his average is three victories a month, having destroyed twenty enemy planes and an observation balloon since his debut, December 20, 1917. Not all of these have been officially recorded. Putnam shows in the air the same aggressiveness that the Germans have been gripped to observe in our infantry. Like a great many new fliers, he sailed boldly over the lines far into the territory occupied by the Germans to provoke battle. In consequence a number of his victories could not be officially confirmed and the risks were largely increased. Twice he has had to plane back over the lines with his motor out of commission and his machine shot up.

Woe First Battle Jan. 19. After seven months training and one month's service at the front he fought his first battle and won it on January 19. Wally Winter, of Chicago flying in the same patrol, said Putnam saved him during this fight. Putnam now says he was the man who was saved by Winter. Flying in a high wind that bore him over into the enemy's territory he sighted two Germans below him making for the French lines. He dove after them and got one at 2,000 yards height. Then he discovered that the other German was maneuvering above him and that higher up water was coming down followed by two more of the enemy. He took height to meet Winter and the Germans abandoned the fight. A curious accident in his second fight, January 27, gave Putnam the unpleasant sensation of being at his adversary's mercy. He made such a sharp dive after his man that his machine turned turtle and all his spare ammunition fell out. He had fired the last cartridge from his gun when the German, wobbled and crashed about two miles inside the German lines. Putnam's last shot had done for him.

Another Narrow Escape. A week later he had another narrow escape when in a fight with four two seaters his machine was shot almost to pieces. He just managed to dive under his adversary's plane and back to the French lines.

Putnam began work with the squadron of Lieutenant Madon on a monoplane March 14 and the same day ran into a patrol of 15 Germans. Knowing he had the advantage in speed he decided to make a quick attack then dive. All the Germans followed him down, one of them, at least, in a dizzy nose spin, making the third success officially credited to him. The next day he downed a two seater in a fight with two, his gun jammed and he had to dive away from the second.

One of his longest and hardest combats was on April 11 when he engaged four two seaters during thirty five minutes. One of them crashed. The afternoon of the following day he ran into one of the German "circuses". There were six in the group and he got two of them. These made five adversaries shot down between March 14 and April 12 from a monoplane.

Gave Himself Up for Lost. Engaged at close quarters with a two-seater on May 15 he got near enough to see the German gunner fall forward on his quick firer when he sent a bullet home. Putnam was brought down himself for the first time June 2 but without personal damage. He was one of the two fighters protecting two reconnoitering machines when he sighted 11 Germans. He signaled but the reconnoitering planes continued their course. Two minutes later the Germans came on in two groups, one of five above and one of six below. The reconnoitering planes dove for their lines and Putnam for the first time in his career gave himself up for lost.

One of the Germans had succeeded in cutting off the reconnoitering planes. Putnam dove and dove him down. Another German dove at the second reconnoiterer and Putnam followed him. The German "put his nose up", which in aviation parlance means that he made a steep turn, and put three bullets into Putnam's motor. He got on in return that sent him down in a crashing slide on the wing. Meanwhile the six machines in the higher group were firing and one of their bullets went thru the machine within half an inch of Putnam's foot. His motor was now out of commission, and he was looking for his disaster at once—a fall of 4,000 yards and the final bullet. Again the Germans abandoned just as they were about to get him and he managed to fall just softly enough to break nothing but "wood."

Fight Made Him Famous. The great fight that made Putnam famous in France was over the battlefield of Rheims on June 5. In a half hour combat he shot down five of an enemy squadron of ten Albatrosses. It was close and difficult work for the Germans maneuvered skillfully and closed in on him until he could see pilots plainly in their cockpits as their machines passed under him. He waved his hand to one of them and the German returned the salute in the thick of the fight. All Putnam says about it is that he kept out or range as best he could and watched closely every chance to fire. He finally got into a good position and the German machine began to fall. Five of them crashed before the fight was over.

Of six Fokkers and the next day of six Albatrosses. June 14 Putnam got three out shot down one of two German observing planes. He was about to put out of this on account of his guns when one of his adversaries pulled out at a sharp angle, fired ten shots, turned over and fell two hundred yards; then the machine broke in the air and crashed. Since then Putnam has accounted for an observation balloon and, on June 10, another enemy plane.

ENGLISH UNIVERSITIES SHOW EFFECT OF WAR. Birmingham, England, Aug.—The effect of the war is more marked in the big English universities this year than ever before. In the University of Birmingham, all the graduates receiving the degree of Bachelor of Arts this year were women. On the science side, the degrees of Bachelor of Science were equally divided between English girls and Japanese students. Two thirds of the Masters of Science were Japanese, and four fifths of the Bachelors of Medicine were girls.

The university of Birmingham is one of the newest and most modern of English universities, specializing in scientific training along modern lines. Practically all its graduates this year will become teachers.

HOW AIRMEN PREPARE FOR NIGHT RAIDS. Mark On Maps Detailed Course from Aerodrome to Their Objective—"Homing Instinct" Makes Return Trip Easier. AN AMERICAN AIRDROME IN FRANCE, July. (Correspondence of The Associated Press.) Before leaving on a long-distance night raid the airmen first prepare their maps with great care marking on them the detailed course from the aerodrome to their objective.

By means of a small balloon, whose speed, direction and height is recorded by an instrument on the ground, the force and direction of the wind at different altitudes is discovered, and the compass course, allowing for wind-drift, is marked beside the course on the map. The compass course for the return journey is also marked. The speed of the machine is calculated, and on the line of the course a series of points are marked, showing where the machine should be every ten minutes, thus enabling the airmen to check his progress and to know his approximate position if he gets lost.

The airman climbs in circles above his aerodrome until he has gained a sufficient height to start safely on his journey, and then turns his machine eastward, until his illuminated compass shows that he is flying on the right course. Then he flies straight, taking care to avoid swerving to right or left.

At the same time he watches the country below for landmarks. As he crosses the lines he looks for some distinctive feature, such as the bend of a canal, the dark mass of a battered town, or the thin black thread of a railway. If he finds it, he knows he is on the right course.

Then he sees that a river should appear in a few minutes. His watch shows that he has been flying forty minutes, and near the forty-five minute mark on his map is a twisted red line. He looks ahead and sees in the moonlight a silver streak and he knows he is making good time. When he is over the river he compares its outline with his map, and sees that he is crossing it at the right place. He is forging steadily ahead to his destination. He sees the river and capitals most clearly of all the landmarks in the night-time. Water is unmistakable. The next most distinct objects are woods and forests which appear like black patches, and their shape is usually very distinct. He sees the roads like thin white ribbons save where they are thickly bordered by trees.

Railways are not so distinct and he cannot see them very far off, for they are likely microscopic black lines. Until he is directly over them he cannot see the towns and villages, but he can see the rivers many miles off, and finds them the most reliable guide of all.

So, checking his compass with the landmarks and with the ever reliable North Star, he arrives at his destination after traveling many miles across unfamiliar country. He drops his bombs, and finds the returns, with lightened cargo, very much easier. There is a kind of "homing instinct," so airmen say, which takes them back quickly and directly with little difficulty.

DETAILS OF KILLING OF VON MIRBACH. Berlin Newspaper Gives Story of Assassination of German Ambassador to Russia, as Told by Eye-Witness of Murder.

Amsterdam, Aug.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press.)—Russians who assassinated General von Mirbach, the German ambassador to Russia, concealed their weapons under the table over which they were conversing with the German diplomat, according to details of the killing published by the Berlin Lokal Anzeiger as coming from an eyewitness of the murder.

"Count Mirbach, Privy Councillor Ressler, and Lieutenant Mueller, were seated with the two Russians at a marble table in the middle of the room," says the witness. "On one side were the Germans, and on the other the Russians. All were seated in low leather chairs, which was an advantage for the Russians as they were thus able to get their weapons ready under the marble table without being observed, while their victims, leaning back in their chairs, offered an easy target."

"During the conversation the Russians began to turn over the pages of their documents as tho in search of some missing papers, and the attention of the Germans was thus distracted by this ploy. While Count Mirbach and his colleagues imagined that the Russians were examining the documents, they had drawn out their weapons under the cover of the table."

"They then sprang up with revolvers, and began firing; one Russian aiming at Count Mirbach, the other at the two other Germans. Count Mirbach was hit in the back of the head. On hearing the shots, people hurried in from the neighboring rooms, and the Russians thereupon took to flight but, before springing out of the window, each of them hurled a hand grenade. Only one grenade exploded, the splinters of which hit Count Mirbach killing him immediately."

DOUGHBOYS IN TOWN; POPULAR VISITORS

Come Under the Auspices of Women of Council of National Defense of the Second District—First District to Secure Quota.

The doughboys who have been advertised for several days past came to the city yesterday and proved most popular visitors.

There was considerable mystery attached to the doughboys visit but they proved to be most delicious cookies baked by the G. A. Muehlhausen bakery.

Their only charge was for materials used which not only showed their patriotic spirit but was greatly appreciated by the ladies in charge of the work. They prepared 331 dozen of the doughboys.

Another record was broken when the young ladies in charge of the sales sold the entire output in one hour. The sales netted the full amount of the district's quota which is $41.75 and is the first district to complete its quota.

The ladies in charge of the work were, Mrs. A. W. Becker, Mrs. Thomas Heaton, Mrs. James Green and Mrs. Joseph Stice. The young ladies who made the sales were: Mae Hoban, Kit McNamara, Mae Sherry, Ethel Anderson, Katherine Rapp, Genevieve Sehy.

MR. CLAUS RENEWS HIS OAKLAND CONTRACT

Will Continue to Represent Company in Distribution of This Great Car in Territory Here.

The following letter just received by J. F. Claus, Oakland car dealer here indicates that Mr. Claus has concluded his contract with the company for the coming year and moreover that his relations with the company are of the most satisfactory kind. The statement of the company manager with reference to the automobile trade and the year will also be of general interest.

Chicago, Illinois.
August 16, 1918.

Mr. J. F. Claus,
Jacksonville, Illinois.

Dear Sir:
We were indeed pleased to receive the new Oakland contract that our salesman arranged with you for this next year as it is a real pleasure to continue our dealings with one of your ability and standing in the automobile business.

The results in your territory since you have had the Oakland contract have been very gratifying to us and while we feel that we have the best and most economical automobile to own and operate, we know that the results in your territory are not due to this alone but are due, to a great extent at least, to the attention and effort you give your business and the square and fair way in which you deal with your trade, and we are pleased over the results during the past year, as well as the arrangements just completed to continue our relationship with you.

You have probably seen a great many discouraging things in the papers with reference to the future of the automobile business and while we have all realized that the first thing of importance is to win the war and that that must overshadow everything else, we are satisfied that it is not the intention of the government to cripple or hinder a legitimate industry, and as the automobile business is the third largest industry in the country, we do not look for any Government action that will materially cripple it and we believe that we will be able to take pretty good care of you on Oakland cars.

There isn't any question but what there will be a shortage. There always has been and we believe the shortage this year will be greater than ever and we would suggest that you urge your customers to buy and take delivery of their cars early, so that later on if any more serious curtailment is necessary, disappointment will not be so great to you and your customers if their wants have all been provided for before that time.

With best wishes, we are,
Yours very truly,
Oakland Motor Car Company,
O. F. Berkey, Manager.

SOME GOOD RAINS

While we are suffering so from lack of rain it is well to know that some parts of our state are being favored. The northwest part of the county has had two good showers within the past week, one of the downpours reaching within five miles of Jacksonville. The vicinity of Chapin too has been favored and a gentleman said that passing through Bloomington on Friday the place was under water, so to speak.

The letter was dated July 25th, the very day the soldier received his "Christmas" present.
